Generations of knowing

With over 50 years' experience in catering and hospitality, we know what it takes to ensure you have a truly wonderful holiday. For generations we've been looking after you and your families and we know what you expect from us.

Since the 1920's, when Mr and Mrs Percy Brend opened their butcher's shop on Barnstaple's Butchers Row, our family has been a permanent fixture in the West Country. Over the years, we have built up a portfolio of hotels across the South West, starting with the Royal Hotel in Bideford and steadily expanding the Brend Hotels brand to embrace eleven hotels and several restaurants.

The Brend family are all passionate about managing our hotels to the highest possible standard and the third generation are now part of the team that makes that happen, paving the way for the fourth generation!

So we have generations of experience in knowing...

We have comprehensive monitoring systems and every hotel is fitted with the latest automatic fire alarm system. Our staff are fully trained in every single aspect of ensuring your health and safety.

We have won many awards for our initiatives to help protect the environment and we are very proud of our Environmental Resource Team, who have implemented a range of innovative measures including energy monitoring systems, recycling, low energy lighting and solar panels right across our luxury hotel collection.
